Onsite vs. Online PLCs

Onsite PLCs	Virtual PLCs
Face-to-face meetings	Through online platforms
Reduce feelings of isolation	More flexibility
Construction of new ideas	Members can all be kept on the same information level
Foster shared responsibility	Barrier to share knowledge is smaller
Feedback culture	Tacit knowledge might get lost

→ As soon as the current situation allows it: blended approach

Best practices

1. When the formation does not emerge naturally, it needs to be facilitated (e.g., through an external force, like a consulting agency)
2. Purpose, goal, vision and mission should be communicated clearly to all members
3. A facilitator is needed – someone who guides the group towards their goal
4. Participation is voluntary
5. Meetings should be scheduled regularly
6. Informal meetings – to ensure natural discussions and that everyone can speak up

Benefits of a PLC

Short term benefits

Individual level:

- Members feel less isolated
- Members engagement at work increases + their happiness

Long term benefits

Employee level:

- Increase in teaching quality (even teachers outside the community can benefit)

Organization level:

- Optimal use of human capital at the Domain
- PLC can expand to different domains of Zuyd to increase teaching quality organization wide
- Positive changes in organizational culture
